It's all part of the job

MLA Shirley Cripps returned home last weekend to help celebrate the Ugetuk Fair at Winfield. Cripps, one of the weekend organizers also took her turn at the dunk tank set up on main street. Welcoming the opportunity to get away from the rigors of political life, Cripps was a 'good sport' about her appearance at the dunk tank. She managed to brave several near misses by young and old admirers alike, before taking the plunge into the icy water. One soaking was all she could handle before departing the scene for some dry clothes and more fair activities.

Husky, Kentucky Chicken involved

Truck stop planned for Drayton Valley

Construction is expected to start in the spring on a 24-hour truck stop in Drayton Valley.

Wide West Services Ltd. will put up the buildings on a 10-acre site along Highway 22, across from Mohawk. Last Friday Dome Petroleum opened a new office complex on half of the site. That building is owned by Wide West Services Ltd.

Dave Ponte, spokesman for Wide West Services confirms that Husky will be the major tenant along with a Kentucky Fried Chicken franchise and a full convenience store.

Ponte also says another franchise is interested in being part of the truck stop, but until something is confirmed, the name will be withheld.

Husky's portion of the truck stop will include a 104-seat restaurant, three service bays, a large truck wash, a regular car wash, gas bar, bulk fuel and key lock system.

Wide West Service engineers are currently working on gaining access to their proposal off Highway 22.

"We hope to utilize the site to its maximum. We are taking our time to do it properly," Ponte says.

Library decision

Residents hit where it hurts

County residents who use the municipal library in Drayton Valley are going to be hit where it hurts...their wallet.

The library board, who is fed up with the apathy demonstrated by the counties of Parkland, Leduc and Wetaskiwin, hope to introduce a two-price system shortly.

If their proposal gets the okay from town council, county users will be looking at a $30 flat rate regardless of age or $100 per family. Residents of Drayton Valley pay $2 for students, $5 for adults and $10 for a family.

The board says they are forced into this position because the counties have not met the request for cost sharing. The three counties account for 30 per cent of the total users at the municipal library. With a proposed operating deficit of $60,952 for the current year, this leaves roughly $20,000 as their combined share of the deficit.

So far the counties have failed to answer requests for funding from the municipal library board. Continued refusal and an okay to proceed from town council, and the new rates will become a fact of life.

Councillor Bill Paniec, a member of the library board, hopes to bring a recommendation to council by the end of August. "Council is expected to kick the idea around before making any decision," Paniec says.

Paniec says the County of Parkland is the only one of the three that gives any money to the municipal library. But, he says, their three dollars per capita is only a shade of the funding needed.

The library board is suggesting to affected county residents that they call their county councillor or reeve and urge payment as requested by the library board.

Youths arrested after break-ins

Two youths have been arrested in Drayton Valley in connection with a series of break-ins.

On Aug. 15 the young offenders were arrested after an investigation into more than 20 break-ins in Drayton Valley residences and businesses, said Const. Tim Vatanianuk.

RCMP are still investigating the situation. The police had been investigating a "rash of break-ins," said Cpl Chris Lee.

Lee commented there have been some break-ins not related to the arrests.

Last week, Lee stated "There were a number of break-ins where nothing was taken." He added there seemed to be something specific being sought in those cases.

"We've been unable to place any type of pattern to the break-ins. It is possible more than one group or individual are responsible," explained Lee.

Residents should be warned to take appropriate precautions, such as locking their doors, and not leaving items in the open, said Lee.

Getty used to tough times

By Neil Speers

It seems Tory hopeful Don Getty continues on even though he's had a fair share of tough times.

Getty was in Drayton Valley Monday at a private wine and cheese party. There he made a quick speech to possible delegates.

The two main priorities for Getty are strengthening the role of agriculture in the rural economy and unemployment.

He pointed out short-term policies are not enough in the long run, but there are problems being faced today by farmers which have to be dealt with now.

Getty also said they would shift the "focus" of the government from so much oil to take in more agriculture.

On unemployment, Getty said, "The only way to tackle it is to build the strength of the private sector."

To do this, he would review the royalties, taxes, regulations and anything the government does which affect businesses.

"Alberta has such strengths, I'm sure we'll build upon those strengths...The demand (for goods) will be there" to get businesses to invest with any extra profits not taken in taxes, said Getty.

The Heritage Trust Fund also came into Getty's speech. "I believe there is such trouble...I can't reconcile in my mind when the government continues to put away money for the future...For a couple of years, we should divert these funds to cure problems now."

However, he added, the main funds should not be spent now but should be saved for the future.

Having always thought trying to be elected for the leader Progressive Conservative Party of Alberta would be a hard fight, he confirmed, "It is a tough campaign."

He stressed his experiences during hard times as an essential quality for leading the party.

When Getty came to Alberta, he joined the Edmonton Eskimos, for which he played quarterback. Everyone was saying there were no Canadian quarterbacks. But, taking the Eskimos to the Grey Cup three times proved Canadians can play that position, said Getty.

Later, he joined with Peter Lougheed to get the party first into the opposition, then in 1971 to form the government. Getty pointed out his experience creating two new departments as a background for today's needs.

The two departments, Federal and Intergovernmental Affairs, and Energy and Natural Resources, were ones which put Alberta in a position of being able to help form Canadian policy, Getty commented.

Reduces chronic pain

Shimbashi nominated for $75,000 Manning Award

By Lorne Christensen
Local dentist Hank Shimbashi has been nominated for the prestigious Manning Award.

Dr. Shimbashi was nominated for the $75,000 award for his work in the field of reducing chronic pain.

He is one of 87 Canadians being considered for the award which is annually given to recognize Canadian innovators.

Dr. Shimbashi was nominated for the award by Dr. Walter Buck, a well-known Edmonton dentist and MLA for the Representative party, and by Dr. John Sherman, a Lethbridge dentist.

Buck explained he nominated Dr. Shimbashi because "he has worked closely with him" and is "enthusiastic about a guy of this calibre right here in Alberta."

"I've worked as closely with him as anyone in my profession and from that work I believe that he is in the top five in this field in North America," Buck added.

He also pointed out that "because he (Shimbashi) is an Albertan or Canadian" he is not getting the recognition he deserves.

"The research work he has done is ahead of the people who developed the process in Seattle," Buck said.

The process involves reducing or eliminating neuromuscular pain.

"Most of the patients are the ones that have gone just about everywhere. They go from pain and total discomfort into a pain free state," Shimbashi explained.

"We've treated so many patients in this area, our research program has taken about seven years," he added.

The treatment varies with each patient. "Some patients" are different to treat because "it depends on how far they have let themselves go," according to Shimbashi.

He has treated more than 2,000 patients over the past seven years, most of which come from Western Canada. In addition to treating people he is also promoting the concept to other health care professionals.

Shimbashi has travelled extensively lecturing in the United States and Western Canada on the treatment.

It was through one of these lectures that Nora Nadrichny, of Winnipeg, ended up coming to Dr. Shimbashi in Drayton Valley.

She had been suffering from headaches, insomnia, neck and back pains and TMJ pain or temporomandibular joint pain. This involves the dysfunction of the hinge that connects the lower jaw to the upper jaw.

"Two minutes was all I could stand it anymore," Nadrichny said.

She had gone through three sets of dentures in two years that "fit good but didn't correct the jaw." She was recommended by a Winnipeg dentist to see Dr. Shimbashi. She was back for her "final adjustment" in Drayton Valley recently and is almost completely free of pain.

"Stories like this come in the office day after day, people are in agony," Shimbashi added.

Besides introducing the concept to Canada, Dr. Shimbashi has also been involved in spreading the idea to other practicing professionals.

He belongs to the United Neuromuscular Association, a group which is promoting the idea of health care professionals sharing the latest information on neuromuscular disorders.

"Our basic program is to correlate professionals so they understand the symptoms," he added.

Shimbashi says he got into this new field "to help people suffering from this pain."

The winner of the award will be announced Sept. 26 in Edmonton at the fourth national awards dinner.

Opinions

Downtown sidewalks in need of repair

Blocks and blocks of new sidewalks have been poured in Drayton Valley this summer.

Councillor Charlie Miner, who urged town council to improve the sidewalks near the new senior citizens complex, so the kids would have a proper place to walk, has to be pleased.

Laura Richard, the Greenwood Trailer Park mother who expressed concern back in March over the safety of her eight-year-old son going to and returning from school, now has sidewalks. Add to that, Richard's plea for bus service has been answered by the County of Parkland.

While Miner and Richard have got the results they were after, there are other problems.

Ethel Ruthenburg, a 65-year-old Entwistle resident who shops in Drayton Valley, would like to see something done with the sidewalks in the downtown core.

She has the black and blue marks to prove that many of the existing sidewalks either need to be replaced or levelled.

During a recent shopping trip to Drayton Valley, Ruthenburg took a bad fall that resulted in a knee injury, black and blue marks on her wrist and her glasses were scratched. This incident happened on Drayton Valley's main street, where two sections of sidewalk are separated by a two-inch drop.

Ruthenburg, definitely shaken by the unfortunate fall, was also upset at the lack of concern by the people who should've cared...the store and the town. As we understand it, the matter is being investigated by the town's transportation committee.

The town has already done a lot to improve walking conditions in many areas. Let's not stop now. Many elderly people walk downtown. Our sidewalks should be made safe for them, at least.

One aspect of life in Drayton Valley that is often overlooked is the education benefits.

Folks hereabouts should consider themselves fortunate to have the Pembina Educational Consortium and the Powerhouse Further Education Council. Both of these agencies provide programs that otherwise, people would have to go into Edmonton to get.

If you want to know more about the education programs available in Drayton Valley call Joe, Chris or Mary Lou at the Consortium (542-5650) or Cathy at the Powerhouse (542-3373).

A bouquet to Greg Cowell, manager at Drayton Valley's new Turbo station. He was instrumental in organizing the very successful Dodson Mail promotion.

What are some of the little things in life that Drayton Valley residents would like?

The most recent business survey listed some of these. They include better medical services, a curling rink, drive-in theatre, MacDonalds, preventative Social Services crisis hotline and drug treatment, arena, pulp and paper mill, Instabank teller machines, Mr. Submarine, Co-op, footlocker, outdoor pool, mail delivery door-to-door, milk delivery, Dairy Queen, 24-hour truck stop, railroad, book store and an employment office just to name a few items.

People also said taxes and utilities were too high, that the town could be kept cleaner. Personal comments ranged from better sanitary conditions in food stores to more promotion on behalf of the town toward new industry.

All this should be enough to keep economic development chairman Tom McGee and his committee busy for several months.

Lou Matlock has to be the proudest fishermen in these parts. A photo, showing off a big catch, has been reproduced in the Evergreen Tourist Association's new brochure. Instead of telling a fish tale about how big that catch was, the Legion president has all the proof he needs as 25,000 copies are on the market.

If you eat out a lot and want a change of scenery, we'd like to suggest the Drayton Valley golf course clubhouse. Their hamburgers are great.

While the town has removed the pop and chocolate bar machines from the Park Valley swimming pool, manager Charlene Jenkins promises the rope will be returning. The rope, just in case you're interested, was installed because there was no proper driving board.

If you're upset with the prospect of a two-price system at the municipal library in Drayton Valley, send us a letter. In fact, if there's anything that's bothering you, write today. Remember, all letters must be signed.

Dome opens new building

Dome Petroleum opened their new 9,200 square foot office building last Friday afternoon in Drayton Valley.

About 50 people attended including several company officials from Calgary, Mayor Bob Mayhew and MLA Shirley Cripps.

Dome Petroleum opened their first office in the area at Violet Grove in 1955. Four years later they moved into Drayton Valley where they operated out of a garage close to the Elks Hall. In 1975 Dome closed their office in Drayton Valley and ran their operations out of Rocky Mountain House. But they returned in '78 and the opening of their new office complex clearly indicates they plan to stay.

One of the loudest cheers was for MLA Cripps who told Dome employees, "I promise to work on the Brazeau road".

Owners of the building, Dave Thomas and Dave Ponte of Wide West Services Ltd. of Drayton Valley presented Dome officials with a scenic picture to mark the official opening.

Dome presented pen sets to Thomas, Ponte, Mayor Mayhew, MLA Cripps and Bud Chown of Tier II Developments.

The new office complex, located on 50th Avenue, across Highway 22 will be home for 35 Dome employees.

Cripps' support

Koziak is coming

Tory hopeful Julian Koziak is scheduled to visit Drayton Valley on Saturday.

Koziak, the last of the three candidates running for the PC leadership, will be at the senior citizens drop-in centre from 10 a.m. to noon.

Koziak has the support of Drayton Valley MLA Shirley Cripps.

In explaining her decision to support Koziak, Cripps says: "I've worked with him for six years in caucus. He's very personable, a good listener and has excellent leadership qualities".

Cripps doesn't expect to see a provincial election this year. There has been talk that if Getty, the former Edmonton Eskimo quarterback was to win, he may call a fall election. While Gitter or Koziak would likely wait for six months.

Koziak's weekend visit to Drayton Valley is expected to include a trip to the agricultural fair being held at the curling rink.

Dollars help says Banks

By Lorne Christensen

A $62.7 million dollar program to assist Alberta farmers will "help" some producers, according to a local hog farmer.

Dave Banks, who is also the manager of the Entwistle Livestock Co-op, says "every dollar helps."

But Banks was cautious in saying he "basically can't comment" on the program until he knows how much it will bring producers.

Banks, a former district agriculturist, added that the program "sounds like a lot" and should bring Alberta farmers to a "good price level."

The announcement by Agriculture Minister LeRoy Fjordbotten last week means Alberta will have a "red meat stabilization program in place within 60 days."

The program calls for $123.7 million to be divided among pork, beef and sheep producers from 1985 to 1987.

The province had been pushing for the federal government to implement a program to reduce the difference in prices between provinces.

Local MLA Shirley Cripps says

if the federal government doesn't come up with a national program the Alberta government will go with their own.

She added they had hoped the federal program would be in place by now.

According to a recent letter from the Alberta Pork Producers Marketing Board, Alberta is the only province where producers are not partly supported by the government. The letter goes on to say "Alberta producers are alone, unfairly compelled to bear the full brunt of Canadian marketing troubles."

Banks pointed out that most producers were having problems competing with producers from other provinces that were being subsidized.

"We break even and then we go out to work to put bread and butter on the table," Banks explained.

He added in the last three years the price for hogs has dropped 37 per cent but "fertilizer, fuel, machinery" and prices for everything else has gone up.

Banks said there was getting to be "less and less" producers because they "can't keep producing without money."

Almost a practical joke

Hooks gets historical award

By Neil Speers

A recent awards ceremony for a Breton resident took on shades of a practical joke.

Gwen Hooks, a charter member of the Breton Historical Society, was given an award as a Friend of Heritage for contributions to preserving the local history.

To make sure she arrived at the ceremony, the organizers had her phone most of the other society members to get them out to the meeting. It turned out, no one told Hooks why the meeting was called. However, everyone she had phoned did know, and were not about to tell her.

When Colleen Lee, mayor of Breton, announced the award and who had won, Hooks, sitting in audience, had no idea it was coming.

Reading from a letter by Jamie Blair, the National Parks Centennial Citizens' Committee's director for Alberta, Lee congratulated Hooks for the achievements which led to the award.

"It is indeed appropriate that your efforts for heritage conservation are recognized...Your contributions will help to ensure that Canada's rich, natural, historic and artistic legacy will be preserved for future generations," Lee read.

This year is the centennial of the National Parks system, and in celebration of this, the awards are being handed out across Canada as part of a Federal program.

The awards are to recognize work by citizens outside of Parks activities.

Since joining the Historical Society, Hooks was involved in writing the Ladder of Time, a history book on the Breton area. This book won a $1000 award as being the best of its kind in Alberta.

Following the book, Hooks worked on having the Keystone Cemetery restored, and is now "hoping to have the cemetery declared an historical site," which will make it inactive.

The next project for the society is creating a museum for the area. This will need land, a building and federal grants to make it happen, said Hooks.

"I enjoy doing things like that," declared Hooks. But she added "you can't wait too long" for starting these projects or the resources are lost.

Park Valley Pool staff "very qualified"

By Lorne Christensen
The Park Valley Pool staff has "higher qualifications" than expected, according to pool manager Charlene Jenkins.

Jenkins said the 20 members of staff are "very qualified."

The 28-year-old Jenkins herself heads the list with 12 years of experience in "all areas of aquatics."

She has both a recognized pool operators certificate and a pool manager certificate. This means she can handle the mechanical and operational aspects as well as the administration duties at the pool.

Jenkins has been in Drayton Valley since December, even though the new pool opened in February. Before the pool opened she was organizing programs.

The list of qualified staff continues with Shelley Makarowski. The 23-year-old head lifeguard has more skills and mechanical knowledge than the other lifeguards on staff, according to Jenkins.

Makarowski does "a lot of the mechanical" work and has a University of Alberta degree in chemistry.

Makarowski, like Jenkins, is a certified Red Cross first aid instructor.

Next in line is the head instructor at the pool, Debbie Brigley. Brigley, 28, is responsible for assisting with programs and instructor training.

Brigley had three years previous experience at the old outdoor pool and works mainly with the aquatic and school programs.

The lifeguard instructor is Lynette Burke. The 20-year-old Burke just recently moved to Drayton Valley from Entwistle where she worked several summers at the Entwistle pool.

According to Jenkins, Burke "really likes aquatics" and both teaches and guards at the pool. Burke, like the entire staff at the pool, has standard first aid training.

Jeff Kiser, a NAIT student, is another senior lifeguard and instructor at the pool. The 19-year-old is working the summer at the pool before going back to school, but will continue working weekends in the fall.

He likes to work in the mechanical end of the pool and did work at the old outdoor pool, Jenkins said.

Next on the list of pool staff is 23-year-old Donna Gardiner. The University of Alberta stu-

Charlene Jenkins looks on while Colleen Bryant works on the computer. Jenkins also used to work at the outdoor pool before moving indoors with the new facility.

She is a "fitness fanatic" and "teaches a real mean aquatics class," Jenkins said. Gardiner is working to become a teacher.

Next is 18-year-old Mark Freeman, a junior lifeguard. This "soon to be senior" lifeguard just finished high school and will be going to the University of Alberta in September.

He works in the mechanical end of the pool and is a water safety instructor.

Then there is Lori Dashney, 17. Dashney is a junior lifeguard and just finished high school. Jenkins describes her as "a talented instructor."

Chad Anker, 17, is also a junior lifeguard. He has, like Dashney, all the qualifications, including bronze medallion, bronze cross and is a water safety instructor. He is returning to high school in the fall but will stay on part-time with the pool.

Then comes 26-year-old Tamme LaChance, a senior lifeguard. She has two kids and works mostly mornings and does the school and pre-school programs. Jenkins says she is "really good with the kids."

Colleen Campbell, 27, is also a lifeguard and instructor. She lives on a farm and teaches mainly the school programs. She is married with two kids.

Kimberly Glowa is the summer STEP student working at the pool. The 17-year-old just graduated from high school and is fully qualified as a lifeguard. Jenkins said she is "hoping to stay and do part-time work with the pool" after the program finishes.

Lloyd Verreault, 18, is another junior lifeguard and instructor at the pool. He is working to become a senior lifeguard and just finished high school.

Candee Foster, 21, is the head receptionist at the pool. She graduated from Red Deer College's business administration program and is a "real computer whiz," Jenkins said.

She supervises the part-time cashiers, does computer programming and "everything to do with the office."

Colleen Bryant, 21, is also a receptionist. Jenkins describes her as "a jack-of-all-trades" and one of the "most versatile staff members."

Bryant is working on being a lifeguard and has taken some computer classes. She "does a bit of everything" including aquatics classes, Jenkins said.

Chad Anker watches the pool.

The final member of the pool staff is Leigh Bartek, a part-time receptionist. The 20-year-old works mainly weekends and evenings and just completed her standard first aid. Jenkins said she is "good with the public."

Everyone at the pool has their standard first aid, which Jenkins describes as "unusual."

Under the new operational guidelines for pools at least one person on staff at any time has to have standard first aid.

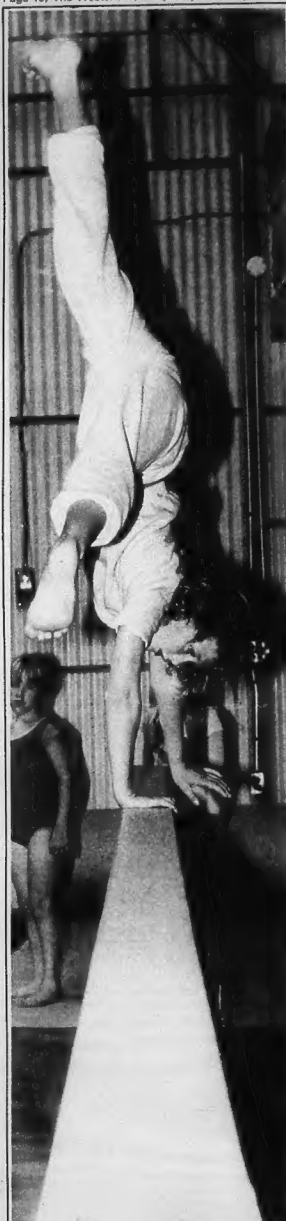

Jenkins said the staff is "terrific" as the average for experience is about four years.

"At least half of them worked with the outdoor pool," Jenkins added.

Joanne Fedorus, 10, does some acrobatic moves on the balance beam as part of a local gymnastics program. About 15 kids are taking part in the program that runs until August 23 in a building behind H.W. Pickup School.

Licenses available

Hunting rules are changed

Moose or elk that don't want to be shot should cross the North Saskatchewan River or Highway 22 before hunting season starts.

Moose and elk east of the highway between Drayton Valley and Evansburg or the river south of Drayton Valley are safe. But moose or elk west of these boundaries are legal game, when hunting season rolls around.

This is just one of the changes in hunting regulations for the 1985 season. Susan Lee, a secretary with the Fish and Wildlife office in Drayton Valley, says there are some other changes.

She pointed out one change in big game Zone

13, west of Drayton Valley, makes it "pretty well open for everything."

Another change is in Zone 3 past the Brazeau. People hunting in that area "can buy a non-antlerless moose license and hunt female moose for three days, but if they buy that license they cannot buy a general moose license," Lee explained.

The non-antlerless moose season in this zone runs for three days from Oct. 22 to the 24th.

"It is closed for female mule deer but open for female and male whitetail deer," Lee pointed out.

Lee said that the Fish and Wildlife office is "pretty quiet" right now although they are selling some bow hunting licenses.

She adds that licenses for the hunting season that starts later this fall are available now.

"They can come in now and avoid the rush," Lee said.

Curlers to plan meeting

The Drayton Valley curling club will be having their organizational meeting on Aug. 28 at 7:30.

The meeting, in the curling rink, will focus on getting "re-organized" according to club president Alex Salfi.

Salfi said they will discuss "general things" like fees, the caretaker and kitchen staff positions. "The big thing is to get the new executive in place and get them working," Salfi added.

He said they will also be discussing the plans for a new curling rink. Salfi explained they are still in the "early stages" and are formulating a "game plan" for the new facility.

But the meeting will mainly focus on a "general start-up" and setting up the season, according to Salfi.

Golfers dream

Mark Pearson took just one swing to complete the 190-yard fifth hole at Lindale on the weekend.

The Drayton Valley golfer used a four iron on the hole to record a hole-in-one.

Pearson was playing with Vince McGee, Mike McGee and Garry Swendside when he recorded the feat.

Golfers after county grant money

The Drayton Valley Golf Club will have to wait another month to see how much money they will get from the County of Parkland for their nine-hole expansion.

The golf club, Blueberry and Clynmont Community leagues were scheduled to appear before the County of Parkland Parks and Recreation Board last week to view their request for funds from the community recreation cultural grants program. However, that meeting has been pushed back to Sept. 9 because the county couldn't get enough people together.

The county had asked these three groups to appear before them as they made the biggest request for funds.

The County of Parkland received 42 requests for funding with 29 coming from groups in the east end of the county and 13 from the west end.

Ed Haykowski, west end parks and recreation coordinator stationed in Drayton Valley says the delay will not affect any decision on the grants.

Haykowski says an application from the provincial government to the county to look at hosting the 1988 Alberta Summer Games is just a formality, and he's not sure if a formal bid will be made.

Phone survey

For second arena

A second ice facility for Drayton Valley still could be a reality.

A local group is preparing for a September phone survey to determine if the town could support a second facility.

George Bergquist, a member of the group, said they "haven't done much" lately but are planning the telephone survey for the beginning of September.

Bergquist said they will be contacting about "every third or fifth person" in the telephone book.

He added the questions will determine "if there are enough users to warrant it" and where people feel the best location would be.

He said they have several "different ideas" but not any specifics. One plan would see the facility in Lions Park.

"We don't have any money but we have lots of ideas," Bergquist said.

Kelly will coach junior Blades

The Drayton Valley Blades now have a coach but not much else.

Simon Kelly, who coached the team last year for their last seven league games, says he will take on the coaching position.

Kelly added he will try and do anything he could to make the team go.

Kelly offered a piece of advice for anyone wanting to get involved.

"There is no glory and you don't get paid. You have to do it for the kids," he said. "If nobody cares what happens then there will be no team."

"I'd hate to see them not have a team," Kelly pointed out.

Ernie Staples, who originally formed the team several years ago, echoed similar statements.

"I can see the team needs help, that is why I'm back to help out where I can," Staples said. He left the team two years ago because of "too many problems with different things."

But Staples says even though he is coming back he will not be getting involved as much as before.

Staples was concerned that the team may have a "shortage" of players with the new age limits on midgets, meaning no players will be moving up into the junior level. He added that the kids going away to college could be another factor in the number of players available.

But Staples is confident there will be a team. "As far as I know everything is set up to stay in the league," he explained.

Board undecided on achievement

The Drayton Valley recreation board is undecided about how to recognize athletic achievement.

The matter which has been discussed for months, was raised at last Wednesday's recreation meeting. A policy, submitted by recreation director Calvin Bennefield, called for the names of groups and individuals reaching a provincial level to be submitted to his department by the group or club involved. The policy also stated that this list would be forwarded to council. Just how the team or individual would be recognized wasn't spelled out in the policy.

However, the board didn't feel that policy adequately covered the situation. The pros and cons of the policy were hashed out with no decision. It was decided to contact other towns who honor their athletic accomplishments.

Hopefully, a report will be ready when the board meets next month.

Henry Rondeau, spokesman for the County of Parkland, who sits on the recreation board, said the county would definitely be interested in participating in this plan.

Lang at Canada Games

Kevin Lang is one of the best javelin throwers in Canada.

Lang, 20, recently competed in the Canada Summer Games in Saint John, New Brunswick as part of the Alberta team and placed 12th.

Lang lives between Drayton Valley and Evansburg and has been competing in javelin for four years.

He won the provincials while in Grade 10 and 11 at Grand Trunk High School in Evansburg and finished second in Grade 12.

Lang threw 58 metres in the qualifying round and then tossed 50 metres in the final. If he had equalled his earlier toss he would have placed "seventh or eighth." The winner from British Columbia threw 67.8 metres.

Lang, whose coach lives in Lethbridge, says he qualified for the Canada games in early July by winning a meet in Calgary.

He adds that his goal is to throw "around 70 metres."

But for now he is content to continue training and reflect on the week he spent in New Brunswick at the games.

"I made a lot of new friends from Quebec and Ontario," Lang points out.

Thirteen straight

Colts trample Oilers in extra innings to win ball title

The Easyford Colts won their 13th straight Oilfield Baseball League playoff title Sunday.

But, it wasn't easy. Both the Colts and the Drayton Valley Oilers finished the preliminary round at the two-day playoff with identical 2-1 win-loss records. In the sudden death final, a five-run, seven-hit 11th inning carried the Colts to a 15-10 win.

Catcher Dwayne Baird delivered the big blow, a bases loaded two-run single in the top of the 11th to give the Colts a 12-10 lead. Before the inning was over, Easyford sent 10 men to the plate. The Oilers put their first two runners on base in the bottom of the 11th but then went down in order.

Gary Kreye, the third Easyford pitcher, took the win while Harvey Allen was tagged with the loss. The Oilers used five pitchers in the marathon game.

The Oilers, who have never won an Oilfield playoff title, led 6-1 after the fourth inning but the Colts tied the game in the fifth with five runs. The lead changed hands several times with the Oilers scoring twice in the last of the 8th on Reno Martin's two-run single to force extra innings.

The Colts collected 21 hits in the 11th inning game, with Baird leading the way with his key hit in the 11th and a two-run homer in the fifth that tied the game at 5-5. Ken Baird led the Oilers 18-hit attack with four singles and a double.

Easyford defeated the Warburg Rams 14-1 in their opening game as Randy Pysar led the way at the plate with four hits. Brent Ruff had three singles and a double for the Rams, who also booted the ball 12 times.

The Colts' record fell to 1-1 as they dropped an 11-7 decision to the Oilers in the preliminary round. Four home runs by Don Zimmer, Alden Baird, Fred Martin and Gerald Dusterhoft accounted for six runs in the Oilers' win.

Easyford qualified for the final with an 18-12 slugfest against the Breton Royals. A seven-run second inning helped the Colts to the win. The teams collected 34 hits with the Royals leading the way in that department with 18.

The Oilers were impressive on the first day as they downed Breton 12-9 in their opener as Chad Allen hit two home runs. And then, upped their record to 2-0 with the 11-7 win over Easyford. But 10 errors Sunday morning led to their 15-9 loss to Warburg.

While the Oilers missed winning their first ever Oilfield Baseball League playoff title, they did dominate the individual awards.

Don Zimmer was selected as the tournament's most valuable player. Zimmer had a home run in the 12-9 win over Breton, was the winning pitcher in the 11-7 win over Easyford and helped his own cause with a single, home run and double.

The league awards were also presented following the final game with the Oilers' Chad Allen winning the batting title and the golden glove award. The Oilers Gerald Dusterhoft won the home run title. And, Les Hutchinson of Easyford won the pitching award.

League secretary Lois Baird presented both the league and playoff trophies to Easyford's Roy Hutchinson.

Over 60,000 swim in pool

More than 60,000 people have used the Park Valley swimming pool in Drayton Valley since it opened Feb. 10.

Manager Charles Jenkins reports attendance figures for the first five-and-a-half months is 60,327. That total includes 17,141 people in the leisure swim time. Family swim time has attracted 5,415. Schools have made good use of the facility with 11,162 people up to the end of June.

Jenkins has set a goal of 120,000 users by the end of December. The way the people have responded to the new facility, Jenkins feels her own goal is realistic.

In July 10,335 people used the Park Valley pool. This figure included 4,986 for leisure swimming and 3,183 in programs.

One of the disappointing totals was teen swimming where 48 people took advantage of the special time on Friday evenings. The pool manager plans to talk to the junior and senior schools to see if some interest can't be generated.

The July total is the second best monthly figure. During March 12,658 people used the pool.

With kids returning to school shortly, Jenkins will be looking for some impressive totals by the end of September.

Minor ball needs storage area

The Drayton Valley Minor Baseball Association is looking for a place to store their equipment.

Last year five big storage lockers in the arena handled most of their equipment, but due to a moisture problem, minor ball wants to move those lockers.

They have asked for space in the old swimming pool building, but the size of their present lockers make it impossible to get through the doors at the desired location. The recreation department will consider minor ball's request when the consultant's report on building is made.

Park Valley Pool is gearing up for the fall. All programs have been set up and registrations are being accepted for all classes. Program brochures will be included in the Sept. 4 edition of the paper. If you have questions regarding our program please feel free to drop down to the pool anytime.

Watch for a few new additions to our fall schedule:

- Private aquacize classes (no other programs will be in the pool during this time).
- Mary's Life Aquatics - open to all!
- Activity swims - after school.
- Special needs time.

AND MUCH, MUCH MORE!!!
We will still be offering learn to swim programs for ages six months and up. Choose either a once-a-week or twice-a-week program.

POOL RENTALS

Yes, we are taking pool rentals for fall, winter and spring. Pool parties are a great way to celebrate birthdays, family reunions, staff parties or any other group get together. Organized games and activities are available upon request. Feel free to bring in birthday cakes and snacks to enjoy in the viewing area. Call Charlene at 542-5749 for more information.

Congratulations to our swimmer of the week. Jim has been swimming regularly for the past two months and has been improving tremendously.

No Flyers team again this year

The Drayton Valley Flyers will not be teaming this year.

The local intermediate hockey club didn't have a team last year and club president Dave Meeks explains the same this time around.

"We're still basically idling," Meeks explained.

"I don't think we will (have a team) judging by last year's interest."

"We may form a rep team or tournament team of some kind," Meeks said but added they won't have a team in the intermediate league.

Pool's schedule changes in September

Some major changes are planned for the fall/winter schedule at Drayton Valley's Park Valley swimming pool.

The changes will start in September.

Early bird swims, from 6:30 a.m. to 8 a.m. are being extended from three mornings to four through Thursday. Aquatics will be offered four mornings a week from 10 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. and Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Noon swims which used to be from 12 noon to 1:30 p.m. will be cut back 30 minutes.

Park Valley pool manager Charlene Jenkins also hopes to introduce a seniors social swim and a special needs swim for people in wheelchairs. A super-scared-stiff program for adults twice a week and a master swim club for competitive swimmers 18 and over will also be introduced. The super-scared-stiff sessions will be for people who are new swimmers.

Jenkins plans to talk with the junior and senior high schools in the area to see if more interest can be generated for teen swims. Turnouts for the Friday night pool time have not been good and unless there's a turnaround, the time for teens will be dropped.

Courts on hold

New tennis courts on top of Drayton Valley's new reservoir won't be ready this summer.

Recreation director Calvin Bennefield says it has been decided to let the courts sit for a year and see how the asphalt holds up.

The cost of adding a cushion-like surface to both courts will be figured in the town's 1986 budget.

The recreation board heard last week that the tennis club had given the town $6,000 for work at the courts. Of that, $4,000 had already been spent leveling the courts behind the swimming pool. The balance of the money along with funds from the town will go toward the resurfacing project next summer.

Bennefield told the recreation board that the tennis club is happy with this arrangement.

CHUTE TALK

The Wild Rose Rodeo Association will be in Sangudo this weekend for a 7 p.m. performance Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday, indoors at the arena. A dance will be held Saturday night following the rodeo.

Wild Rose ladies barrel racer Lyne Argent is home in Drayton Valley recovering from a spill she suffered at the Valleyview rodeo. During the ladies' undecorating, the saddle on Argent's horse slipped, sending her to the ground. Surgery at the University hospital in Edmonton resulted in a steel plate and three pins in her left ankle.

A bouquet to all the folks who made the recent Tomahawk rodeo another success. Your efforts were appreciated by all.

Harker's arena will be the scene of their annual fall windup horse show August 24 and 25. Harker's have excellent facilities and you can bet the competition will be keen. For more information call 727-2131.

The Foothills Cowboy Association will be at Jasper Aug. 23-25 while the pros visit Alexander Aug. 24-25. The pros also have a big show at the Panee Agriplex in Hobbema on Labor Day weekend.

Buckskin classes at Harke's show

The Black Gold Buckskin Club, Drayton Valley branch of the Canadian Buckskin Association, have been allotted buckskin classes during Harke's fourth annual fall windup open horse show Aug. 24 and 25.

Many of these classes are ABRA approved, permitting registered horses to receive their points should they place.

The American Buckskin Registry Association has recognized this weekend as two ABRA approved shows as Phil Ross will judge day one, and Bev Hood will judge the second day. Both days will offer a full line of halter and performance classes with cutting, cattle penning and a dun factor class Saturday; while draft horse halter, draft horse pulling, draft horse trail and a dun factor class will be added to Sunday's schedule.

The dun factor class is a halter class which is a part of most ABRA approved horse shows. This class is judged on conformation plus primitive markings. White markings are penalized.

The Black Gold Buckskin Club will present an additional purse of $15 for any ABRA registered horse placing first in the ABRA approved classes.

Show location is Harke's indoor arena, 12 miles south of Highway 16 or 12 miles north of Drayton Valley on Highway 22, 1 1/2 miles west, arena on north side of the road.

There will be a food booth available, pancake breakfast both days, supper and dance Saturday evening. Music by Ralph Amant and band. All contestants and friends are welcome.

For further information contact Jackie Harke, Box 624, Drayton Valley, TOE 0M0, or phone 727-2131 or 727-2247. Programs may be picked up at Rick's Sporting Goods or the Farm Mart in Drayton Valley.

Weather delays opening of new daycare

The new home for the Happy Day Care Centre will not be occupied until September 16. Although the daycare originally planned to move into the new building on 50th Avenue by Sept. 1, the daycare will be staying at their location south of town for a few more weeks.

Owner and operator Parviz Lookmanjee explained the weather has delayed putting in the playground and fence. She had wanted all of it to be ready before being used by the children.

Lookmanjee is "counting the days", waiting for the move. "It will be so convenient for all the parents," she added.

The programs will be the same (as planned), but will be held at the present location.

Children going to kindergarten or for after school care will be transported to the daycare until the new building is complete.

The daycare will have space for nine babies and 46 children from 19 months to 12 years, explained Lookmanjee.

To take care of the children, there will be seven to eight staff and one cook.

Sept. 4

School starts

School bells sound Sept. 4 for all public and Catholic students in Drayton Valley and area.

On that date, students will only be spending a half day. Full-time attendance will start Sept. 5.

If that seems too soon for many students, they should be reminded the teachers have to return the day before.

Building permits show increase

The number of building permits issued in Drayton Valley from January to July are up 22 per cent compared to the same period last year.

So far this year, there have been 76 permits. Last year there were only 62 permits by this time. Also, there had been a total of 80 permits during 1984, which was up from a total of 71 in 1983.

"It's not a dead town," commented town manager, Manny Deol.

"Obviously, there is a lot of construction growth," he said. "The oil and gas activity out there must have contributed to the growth."

Calling the increase in building permits a "sign of progress", Deol said, "This year is going to be much better than last year" for the town's economy.

The Nu-West Photography Club extend their thanks to everyone who entered their contest, with a special thanks to Pat McKittrick and Bryan Barrett of Big Guy Photography, Drayton Valley and photographer Gary Kolenski, also of Drayton Valley who did the judging of the entries.

Congratulations to the winners: Bev Siegel for overall, who received a camera. First in the tranquility category was Phillip Dunn of Onaway who received a $50 voucher, second was Rita Duffy (Kodak carryall bag). In the gigantic category, first was Ilene Playfair of Rimbey who received a camera bag; second was Bev Siegel (camera bag).

In the special effects category Joyce Hayduk placed first (16x20 framed picture) and second was Diane Kramer of Rimbey (Kodak carryall bag).

The club is looking forward to having more contests in the future. All the entries will be displayed at the Alder Flats and Buck Lake fairs.

Wildwood News

By Hazel Winfield
325-3956

Dick Michalechuk enjoyed a holiday in the north with a friend from Edmonton. They travelled to Grande Cache, Grande Prairie and then north. He reports beautiful weather.

Edith Lynch, the Howes and the Hatfields had a family reunion in Wildwood. There were about 70 relatives, many camping at the Centennial Park, where they played ball, horseshoes and had a barbecue. Relatives from Manitoba, British Columbia and Alberta attended.

Brent Winfield and family enjoyed a few days visiting with his sister and family in Elk Point.

The Vic Hawryluk toured Alberta during their holidays. Their last stop was Okotoks. The Abbie Winfields had friends from Surrey, B.C. stop in for a visit.

The Ray Paulsons had her son and family from Calgary visiting. Sandy came home with them after spending her holidays in Calgary.

The Steve Michalechuks flew to Reno and took side trips to Lake Tahoe and Virginia City. Marie Tjenstrom had her daughter and family from Calgary visiting.

A Beltone hearing aid consultant will be at the Senior Citizens Centre on Tuesday, Sept. 10 at 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Wildwood Chapel will be having a daily vacation bible school from Aug. 26 to Aug. 30 for children three to 12 years.

About 25 friends and family members of Elizabeth Richie gathered at the Breton Golden Age Centre July 28 in honor of her 88th birthday.

Daughter Jessie Hinzke from Vancouver and son David and family from Red Deer were able to attend.

Harold Hanson placed first in the second flight in a golf tournament in Vermilion.

Get well wishes to Roy Miller who was transferred from the Drayton Valley hospital to the Glenrose in Edmonton where he is receiving physical, occupational and speech therapy.

Dale and Carol Nestegard hosted a family gathering and to celebrate Dale's mother's (Adora Nestegard of Frontier, Sask.) 70th birthday. The reunion took place at their home on the long weekend in August with 19 family members present. Others present were Ardyth and Ralph Alexanders of Seattle, Wash., Elnor and Ivan Radke of Calgary, Dennis and Marion Nestegard of Regina and Elaine and Barry Ramsey of Edmonton.

The Howard Pearson ranch was the setting for the Parker reunion and to celebrate Howard's mother's (Evelyn Pearson of North Battleford) 80th birthday. A total of 54 family and friends attended the first weekend in August.

Howard and Naomi Pearson, Gary and Rose Hartman, Ray Whitley and grandson Larry Nelson and Pete and Gladys Hansen enjoyed a pack horse trip in the Ram River Country Aug. 6-10. The first morning they woke up to two inches of snow, otherwise they report an enjoyable outing.

New program

Crow rate controversy is far from dead

Anybody convinced the controversy over the Crow Rate is dead has another thing coming! The purpose of this new program is to offset the distortion in Alberta feed grain prices caused by paying the "Crow benefit" to the railways.

The D.A.
Column

by Doug Walkey
542-5968

Know what I'm talking about? Try an example, a fictitious example. Grain is selling at the terminal in Vancouver for say, $120 per tonne. Shipping is about $38 per tonne from here to Vancouver. An expected farm price in Alberta would be $120 - $38 or $82 per tonne. This is the price the grain producer would get from the elevator, so it's the same price he'll charge his neighbor for feed grain. This is really simplistic but this is an example.

Now, because the Crow benefit is paid to the railway, subsidizing the freight costs, shipping costs are reduced by $21 to $17 per tonne. The grain farmer now gets $120 - $17 or $103 per tonne at the elevator. Notice how this raised the price to the livestock producer!

The Crow benefit is calculated to be $21 per tonne on Alberta feed grains. This program is intended to make this benefit available to farmers who have to buy grain for their livestock, or who feed their own grains to their livestock. In order to participate as either a feed grain user or as a feed grain merchant, you must apply and be registered through our office. You can only register once under the program.

Eligible grains include wheat, oats, barley, rye, triticale, grain corn, peas, and faba beans. Livestock eligible includes beef and dairy cattle, hogs, poultry, sheep, goats, horses, and bison. The livestock must be fed within the province.

Feed users registered under the program will be able to issue a "Certificate A" to feed grain sellers, valued at $21 per tonne. Feed merchants similarly registered will issue a "Certificate B" to feed sellers with the same value. All transactions must be at arm's length, i.e. no relatives. The certificates can be converted to actual cheques at the DA offices.

Church hosts Bible school

The Church of God in Drayton Valley will be hosting a Daily Vacation Bible School later this month.

From Aug. 26-30, local children will be able to take in activities such as recreation, singing, clowns, stories and crafts at the church according to Shirley Snell, wife of Pastor Don Snell.

The school is for children ages five to 12 and will be held during the mornings from 9:30 until 11:30.

People who wish to register may call Mrs. Terry at 542-9017.

The program is similar for farmers feeding their own grain to their own livestock. Again, it's imperative they register in advance. We are hoping to have all the necessary forms by early September.

This is a very quick overview of this program. The regulations they sent us are on about 12 sheets of fine print. Any changes or new information will be listed in this column as they are announced. Stay tuned!

Bergquists take on 24-hour company

Answering service has hotline for fires

George and Julie Bergquist's phone rings almost constantly.

But they don't mind because they own DV Answering Service.

The local couple bought the service at the end of July and are hoping to expand and "promote it more."

Ninety-four customers use the service, which will do everything from just answering your calls to giving you a wake-up call in the morning to monitoring alarm systems.

George Bergquist says they average about 4,000 calls a month with several peak periods each day. The day usually starts with a "spurt" of calls from 7 a.m. to about 8:30 a.m. and then from 3:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Bergquist says.

The phones are manned 24 hours a day by the three full-time and three part-time staff members. Each customer has a card which gives the "girls" instructions on when to answer their calls.

Bergquist says they take calls on the switchboard, pagers, intrusion alarms and the fire alarm phone.

He adds when the fire phone rings the girls get "nervous."

"Jaws of Life"

Last year in one day they had nine fire calls. But this year has been "really good" so far, according to manager Bernice Adler.

They receive an average of 50 to 60 fire calls in a year and last year they received a "big thank-you" from the fire department.

"Because it's so important they don't want to make a mistake," says Julie Bergquist.

She adds the fire phone and "Jaws of Life" rescue van, which they also handle calls for, take priority over any other calls.

"All the customers know about it," George Bergquist pointed out saying they all "understand and are excellent."

But besides having the fire phone they also have another unique aspect to their business... voice pagers.

"We are the only ones with voice pagers in town," George Bergquist pointed out.

This enables them to connect a customer with someone trying to reach him. When a call comes in they page the customer. He in turn phones the answering service and is connected with the person wanting to talk to him.

"It's for anyone without a secretary," Julie Bergquist added.

Herberta Hutton on the fire phone.

George Bergquist demonstrates the intrusion alarm system they use.

In addition to answering phones the 7-year-old local service also offers alarms systems.

George Bergquist explained that they have several alarms they monitor for local gas plants. If the plant breaks down an alarm is "triggered" at DV Answering Service and they notify the proper authorities. He added that several companies are coming out with computerized alarms, where if there is a problem they will receive "computer messages on the phone."

In addition to these alarms they also have an intrusion alarm system. If an alarm is set off at one of their client's establishments a phone number appears on the alarm system's screen. Through this number they can trace where the alarm is coming from.

In conjunction with the various alarm systems DV Answering Service also offers wake-up calls.

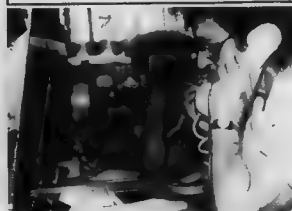

They do about 15 to 20 a day ranging from "truck drivers that leave" as early as 3 a.m. to other wake-up calls at 6 a.m.

For the various services the customers pay a monthly fee in addition to a fee for each call that comes through the switchboard.

The new owners are thinking about expansion but not about moving the service to another building. George Bergquist pointed out it would cost too much to move the complicated wiring system that serves the business.

"We're doomed to stay here," he joked.

Affluence creates problems

Local social services help financially hurting people

By Neil Speers

The affluence of many Drayton Valley residents has driven up prices beyond some people's incomes.

That is where social services comes in.

The cost of living here is "really hurting people," according to Caryl Ricks, a social worker in town.

"We have a lot of single moms who are working, but don't make enough to cover everything," Ricks explained.

There are also quite a few unemployed people in town, but there are "no more than in other places," she commented.

The Drayton Valley office is a sub-office for the services out of Spruce Grove. There are so many people on assistance in this area, though, they found it worthwhile to set up an office here.

Among the services offered are financial assistance to people in temporary need, assured income to the severely handicapped, an employment opportunity program and court services.

There is also a child welfare officer who comes to Drayton Valley twice a week.

For other services, people are referred to Edmonton or Spruce Grove.

Ricks herself is a full-time social worker in Drayton Valley. Most of her job involves ad-

Caryl Ricks ministering the income security program. "I do all the ongoing case work."

They have no idea how many people are in need at any one time as it varies constantly. Many people only need help once in awhile when finding themselves a little short.

But the office does keep very busy.

"I'm pretty bogged down with the paperwork so I don't get out (to people's homes) as often as I should," commented Ricks.

Besides Ricks, there are several other people in the office.

Angel Braitenbach, who, as an intake worker, prescreens all of the applicants to the office.

"We have a very strict policy about what we issue and who is eligible," explains Ricks. She added, though, decisions are "based on an individual basis."

Also in the office are Peggy Christopherson, an assessor, and Lorraine Eriksen, the receptionist.

He's really here

Mazo works to build confidence

Part of Arnie Mazo's job is to let people know he is in town and available.

Mazo is a certified psychologist located in the social services office, even though he and social services have different bosses.

Working for Mental Health Services under the provincial government, Mazo "provides psychological services for the community."

Some of the problems he works on include depression, anxiety, marital and family problems. Mazo said his duties keep him "very busy indeed."

A lot of the clients are referred to him by local doctors, schools and social services. And many will phone him directly, Mazo commented.

His main job is to "provide a form of psychological therapy—try to help them solve some difficult problems in their life. Build confidence."

"Some people only need support once or twice," Mazo explained. He added there are some people for whom therapy can take a fairly long time.

Mazo has been in Drayton Valley for about four months now. Before taking the job here, it had been vacant for a while and so much of his job is to let the town know he is here.

Board gathers park info

Members of the Drayton Valley recreation board have been busy gathering information on local parks.

Last month each member of the board was asked to collect information on specific parks in town. It is the intent of the board to take this information and see what can be done to make the parks more serviceable.

Chairman Chris Kelly told the board last Wednesday that three members had already submitted reports. All the reports are due next month.

"I've talked to people on the north side of McKenzie Avenue and the trend is toward kids," Kelly told the meeting.

Kelly asked last week's meeting about maintenance of the parks; if, for example, a local service club took on a project at the site. Mayor Bob Mayhew, who sits on the recreation board urged total communication between the recreation department and the club doing the project. He didn't want a repeat of a situation several years ago at Rotary Park when the club put in the swings and slides and turned it over to the town to maintain.

The mayor urged the board to go out and see what the people wanted, and then let the service clubs and other interested groups pick and choose their projects.

Youth first

New money policy

A policy dealing with the distribution of grant money has been ratified by Drayton Valley's recreation board.

Youth groups will be first in line for any monies followed by the numbers of membership (town/county breakdown), financial statement, amount required and the purpose intended for the grant money.

It is the intent of the town to see that groups with the biggest need receive financial assistance.

It has been the intention of the town to give $24,020 to the library from this year's community recreation cultural grant. Another $14,772 is earmarked for the town with $49,240 going to minor hockey to help with renovation costs at the arena.

According to recreation director Calvin Bennefield, five groups have already made application for the matching grant money. Local groups have until Sept. 1 to make application. Groups should know that they must match any money they ask for.

Community makes its television debut

By Hazel Winfield
325-3956

Did you see Wildwood on television a couple of weeks ago?

Sympathy is extended to Stan Hanson and family on the sudden death of Marie Hanson.

The Ernie Yankosky attended a wedding in Prince George, B.C.

July seemed to be holiday time as Marie Tjenstrom visited relatives in Calgary and Lethbridge.

Mrs. Buddy Kennedy visited in Victoria, B.C. She welcomed a new grandchild.

The John Woychuk enjoyed a bus tour to the Manitoba Ukrainian Festival.

The Ernie Russells spent a weekend in Saskatchewan.

Roger Lacombe and family spent their holidays in Waterton Park and other parts of the mountains.

Wildwood News

Ellaine Reid enjoyed a visit with son Donald and family in Edmonton.

Elaine Winfield, Susan and Tyler visited with relatives in Wainwright and Chipman, Alberta.

The Mike Shworaks and son enjoyed a trip to Victoria.

Ellen Brownlee attended a wedding in Hinton.

The Bud Dashes attended a cousin's wedding anniversary in Penticton, B.C. Bud was their best man at the wedding 40 years ago.

Elenor Nero, Anna Clare Vankosky, Hazel Winfield and Olga Wolashchuk of Gainford attended an OORP convention in Penticton, B.C. They were kept very busy but enjoyed it. Anna Clare visited a friend from Prince George, now living in Penticton.

ton, and Hazel also managed a few hours with a cousin who lives in Penticton.

On the way home they stopped in Vernon and had coffee with Inez Armitage and also met with Elenor's sister in Clearwater, B.C.

Visiting at Ray Paulson's is his brother Mel, also visiting with his sister Hazel Monty.

Are you ready for the Winfield fair?

The Bob Thompsons visited with relatives in B.C. and attended a wedding at Rocky Mountain House.

MAKING THE GRADE

— These days, a self-help organization isn't a full-fledged self-help organization until it gets its own TV movie. In 1983, Mothers Against Drunk Driving ("M.A.D.D.: Mothers Against Drunk Driving") made the grade. In 1984, it was Victims for Victims ("The Theresa Saldana Story"), and this year Toughlove will be given similar treatment.

Toughlove was founded to help parents who are being manipulated, intimidated and even beaten up by their unruly offspring. The organization argues that parents should stop protecting their children from the unpleasant consequences of their actions.

In "Toughlove," the ABC-TV movie, Lee Remick and Bruce Dern will play the parents of a hostile substance-abusing teenager. In desperation, they turn to Toughlove, the organization.

Lee Remick

"Toughlove" is being directed by Glenn Jordan, who directed "Heartbeats," the Mary Tyler Moore-James Garner TV movie.

SECOND CHANCE — Dustin Hoffman and playwright Arthur Miller go way back.

Dustin Hoffman

When Hoffman was a struggling young actor, he moonlighted as assistant stage manager in an off-Broadway production of Miller's "A View from the Bridge." One evening, Miller dropped by to take in a performance, and Hoffman did what any other struggling young actor would do — hit him up for a job.

Hoffman's aggressiveness paid off when he was cast as Bernard in a recording of "Death of a Salesman."

In 1983, however, it was Miller who did the asking. Would Hoffman be interested in playing Willy Loman in a Broadway revival of "Death of a Salesman"? "When Arthur first brought up my playing Willy," Hoffman recalls, "I told him he was crazy."

But Miller persisted, and in 1984, Hoffman played Willy Loman on Broadway. Those who saw him say that he gave the performance of a lifetime.

If you're among the many who didn't see it, you'll be getting a second chance. On Sunday, Sept. 15, CBS plans to broadcast the filmed version of that production.
